About the JMEI Scheme

In March 2018 the Federal Parliament passed legislation introducing the JMEI scheme with effect from 1 July 2017. The scheme is voluntary and companies must apply each year to participate.

The JMEI scheme encourages investment in small mineral exploration companies that carry out “Greenfields” mineral exploration in Australia, by allowing these companies to generate a tax incentive by choosing to give up a portion of their tax losses from “Greenfields” mineral exploration expenditure for distribution to investors.

The exploration credit that can be issued to an investor is limited to the amount paid by the investor for the new shares multiplied by the Company’s corporate tax rate.

Eligible investors must be Australian resident shareholders who apply for and are issued new shares in the Company’s capital raising activities between 1 July 2019 and 30 June 2020. JMEI credits will be distributed to all eligible investors on a pro-rata basis.

Australian resident shareholders that are issued with JMEI credits will generally be entitled to refundable tax offsets (for individual shareholders or superannuation funds) or franking credits (for companies). Receiving a JMEI credit could have tax consequences and shareholders should obtain independent tax advice specific to their personal circumstances.
